Dear,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 12th April 2021 concerning allegations of racism on social media.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested.

You wrote:

Would you please be able to tell me, for each of the last three years:-

- The number of allegations you've received about racism on social media
- The number of arrests made in relation to alleged racism on social media
- The number of charges in relation to alleged racism on social media
- If available, could you please provide a breakdown of which social media site the complaints related to

Our response:

The information that you are requesting for the majority of your request is not stored in a way which permits easy retrieval.

In relation to what social media sites have been concerned, there is no mandatory field when creating a crime report that states an Officer must fill in what social media platform was used. We do not necessarily keep a log of this information and to ascertain whether we definitely do hold this information or not, this would involve a manual search through all racial hate crime related crime reports received over the last three years.

Not only this, but in order to locate occurrences that are hate crime related and where social media has been involved, we cannot reliably carry out a search on the 'cyber tag' applied to the occurrences because this is not a mandatory field to be filled out and therefore, it could often not be applied when it should be or applied when it shouldn't be. As a result of this, in order to ascertain this information accurately, this would also involve manually searching through all racial hate crime related crime reports received over the last three years.

Under the circumstances I am absolutely confident that to locate, retrieve and extract the information you seek would by far exceed the time obligations upon this authority to comply, and in so doing would exceed the fees limits. This is set at £450 calculated at a flat rate of £25 per hour for those work activities comprising of confirming the information is held, locating it, retrieving it and extracting it.

Ordinarily under our section 16 duty to provide advice and assistance, we would advise you how to refine your request to a more manageable level. However, due to the difficulties outlined above, I cannot see how this can be achieved in this particular case.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires the Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemption applicable to the information requested is:

Section 12: Exemption where cost of compliance exceeds appropriate limit

- (1) Section 1(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

In accordance with section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Kay Moore
