Dear XXXXX,

I write in connection with your request for information dated the 14th September 2021, concerning revenge porn mentioning OnlyFans.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Following receipt of your request, research was conducted by the Business Intelligence department at Wiltshire Police. Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested.

You wrote:

I am requesting the number of reports of revenge porn each year over the last 2 tax years, with reports that mention the use of OnlyFans.

Our response:

The information you are requesting is not stored in a way which permits for easy retrieval. The Business Intelligence department have conducted a 'wildcard' search of all crimes within the period requested, and there were no results returned containing the term 'OnlyFans'. Wildcard searches are not considered reliable or accurate for various reasons, as the search only looks to see if the term is mentioned in the MO / summary field of the occurrence. Therefore, there may be times where relevant occurrences are not returned in the search results, i.e. if the term is misspelt in the MO field or is contained within the main body of the report. To provide an accurate response to this request, a manual review of each occurrence linked to revenge porn would need to be conducted. This would involve searching through hundreds of records.

Under the circumstances I am absolutely confident that to locate, retrieve and extract the information you seek would by far exceed the time obligations upon this authority to comply, and in so doing would exceed the fees limits. This is set at £450 calculated at a flat rate of £25 per hour for those work activities comprising of confirming the information is held, locating it, retrieving it and extracting it. Therefore the whole of the request should fall under the exemption of section 12 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

INVESTOR IN PEOPLE

Please also note that if one part of the request engages a Section 12 response, the whole request will engage a Section 12 response. The reason being is due to the fact that locating, retrieving and extracting any further information would only add to the already exceeded time obligations.

Ordinarily under our Section 16 obligation to provide advice and assistance we would advise you of a way to refine your request to a more manageable level. Due to the difficulties in obtaining the requested information, as outlined above, I cannot think of a way in which this could be achieved.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemption applicable to the information requested is:

Section 12: Exemption where cost of compliance exceeds appropriate limit

(1) Section 1(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

In accordance with section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

Please contact me if you would like to discuss the withheld information.

Yours sincerely

Abigail Standidge
