Dear XXXXX,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 23rd February 2022, concerning doorbell cameras.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested.

You wrote:

This is a request for information regarding your force's use of footage or images taken by doorbell cameras, such as Ring.

Please provide the following information:

1. The number of times members of your force requested access to footage or images taken by a doorbell camera, in each year from January 2016 to present.
2. The number of times members of your force gained access to footage or images taken by a doorbell camera, in each year from January 2016 to present.

Our response:

The information you are requesting is not stored in a way which permits for easy retrieval. The crime recording system captures all property that is booked in, and this is likely the way the requested information is documented, but this would only state whether the footage was CCTV or not. It is also possible this information may be contained within the main body of the occurrence report. However, providing a response to this request would require a manual review of every occurrence report since January 2016. This would involve searching hundreds of thousands of records to determine whether requested information is held.

Under the circumstances I am absolutely confident that to locate, retrieve and extract the information you seek would by far exceed the time obligations upon this authority to comply, and in so doing would exceed the fees limits. This is set at £450 calculated at a flat rate of £25 per hour for those work activities comprising of confirming the information is held, locating it, retrieving it and extracting it. Therefore the whole of the request should fall under the exemption of section 12 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

Please also note that if one part of the request engages a Section 12 response, the whole request will engage a Section 12 response. The reason being is due to the fact that locating, retrieving and extracting any further information would only add to the already exceeded time obligations.

Ordinarily under our Section 16 obligation to provide advice and assistance we would advise you of a way to refine your request to a more manageable level. Due to the difficulties in obtaining the requested information, as outlined above, I cannot think of a way in which this could be achieved.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemption applicable to the information requested is:

Section 12 – Exemption where cost of compliance exceeds appropriate limit

(1) Section 1(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

In accordance with section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

Please contact me if you would like to discuss the withheld information.

Yours sincerely

Abigail Standidge
