Dear XXXXX,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 22nd October 2021, concerning tool theft.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Following receipt of your request, research was conducted by the Business Intelligence department at Wiltshire Police. Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested.

You wrote:

Please can you supply the information on the number of crimes reported in 2019 and 2020 that involved the theft of tools (i.e from building sites, vans etc.)? I would like data on all crimes regardless of their outcome (or Crime Outcome Code.)

If possible, could you please also include the value of the stolen goods in each instance?

Our response:

The information you are requesting is not stored in a way which permits for easy retrieval. We do not currently have the capability within our system(s) to specifically record a number of categories of information that might otherwise enable easy searches for information. We do not currently have the capability to record the specific property that has been stolen, or it's estimated / known value. Our system(s) do not list the property in a way which enables for an easy search, as the details of the property stolen during a theft can be found in the main body of the crime report; in victim or officer statements; or within the free text field of the call log report. The only way to ascertain whether the information you require is held is to complete a manual review of every theft crime occurrence, for the time period requested, to determine whether the theft relates to your request for information.

Under the circumstances I am absolutely confident that to locate, retrieve and extract the information you seek would by far exceed the time obligations upon this authority to comply, and in so doing would exceed the fees limits. This is set at £450 calculated at a flat rate of £25 per hour for those work activities comprising of confirming the information is held, locating it, retrieving it and extracting it. Therefore the whole of the request should fall under the exemption of section 12 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

INVESTOR IN PEOPLE

Please also note that if one part of the request engages a Section 12 response, the whole request will engage a Section 12 response. The reason being is due to the fact that locating, retrieving and extracting any further information would only add to the already exceeded time obligations.

Ordinarily under our Section 16 obligation to provide advice and assistance we would advise you of a way to refine your request to a more manageable level. Due to the difficulties in obtaining the requested information, as outlined above, I cannot think of a way in which this could be achieved.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemption applicable to the information requested is:

Section 12 – Exemption where cost of compliance exceeds appropriate limit

(1) Section 1(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

In accordance with section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

Please contact me if you would like to discuss the withheld information.

Yours sincerely

Abigail Standidge
