Dear,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 29th June 2022 concerning motorbike thefts.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested.

I am writing to you under the Freedom of Information Act to request the following information from your police force area on motorbike theft, please.

The data I am requesting is as follows:

- The total number of motorbike thefts over the last two years split per police force area that you cover. If possible, please can the total number of thefts, for each year, be split per month, so we can determine the most popular time per year for theft, e.g., spring/winter, etc.
- The most common stolen parts from the motorbikes, if this is possible
- The most common stolen motorbike models, if this is possible

Our response:

The information that you are requesting for the majority of your request is not stored in a way which permits easy retrieval. This is because firstly, we do not have codes to separate motorcycle thefts from thefts of other motor vehicles, which means that we would have to manually peruse all thefts of motor vehicle reports in order to obtain the information requested. Furthermore, whilst our crime recording systems are sophisticated, we do not have separate fields in which we record the make and model of the motorbike that has been stolen, nor a separate field for stolen parts that we can easily search on.

Therefore, in order to ascertain the information requested accurately, this would involve us having to manually read each and every report that has been made within the last two years, that'll likely fall under the crime classifications 'Aggravated vehicle taking' and 'Theft or unauthorised taking of a motor vehicle'. As a result, in order to furnish your request, this would take us well over the allocated time frame we have to complete your request within and is therefore, exempt from disclosure.

Under the circumstances I am absolutely confident that to locate, retrieve and extract the information you seek would by far exceed the time obligations upon this authority to comply, and in so doing would exceed the fees limits. This is set at £450 calculated at a flat rate of £25 per hour for those work activities comprising of confirming the information is held, locating it, retrieving it and extracting it.

Please note, that if one part of the request engages a Section 12 response, the whole request will engage a Section 12 response. The reason being is due to the fact that locating, retrieving and extracting any further information would only add to the already exceeded time obligations.

Ordinarily under our Section 16 duty to provide advice and assistance, we would advise you how to refine your request to a more manageable level. However, due to the difficulties outlined above, I cannot see how this can be achieved in this particular case.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires the Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemption applicable to the information requested is:

Section 12: Exemption where cost of compliance exceeds appropriate limit

- (1) Section 1(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

In accordance with Section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Kay Moore
