Please note that the rest of your requested information is exempt from disclosure by virtue of the following exemption:

Section 30(1) – Investigations

Section 30 is a prejudice based and qualified exemption, therefore the harm (prejudice) in disclosure should be evidenced and the public interest given.

Overall Harm

Although every effort should be made to release information under the Freedom of Information Act, to disclose this type of information would prejudice any investigations, whether current or future. Although there is a large public interest in the transparency of policing, especially in relation to high profile investigations and major crimes, this is countered by the need to protect any current or future investigations.

Furthermore, there is a very strong public interest in safeguarding the integrity of police investigations, especially regarding very serious cases. This, in turn, would reassure the public that the police are highly secure and would not disclose any information to the world, not just the requester, which may jeopardise any investigation.

Public Interest Considerations

Section 30

Factors Favouring Disclosure

The disclosure of this information would lead to a better-informed public and promote trust by demonstrating openness, transparency and accountability. This is especially important in relation to high profile cases.

Factors Against Disclosure

Disclosing this information would provide to the world, not just the requester, information which may prejudice current or future investigations into high-profile cases. This would highlight that Wiltshire Police does not take the security and integrity of its investigations seriously, which would cause a large drop in public confidence. This would lead to people not wanting to report incidents and engage with police investigations.

Balance Test

The above points highlight both the merits and issues with disclosing the requested information in full. Overall the police service is charged with enforcing the law, preventing and detecting crime and protecting the communities we serve. Because of this, Wiltshire

Proud to serve and protect our communities

Police will not divulge any information if to do so would prejudice our investigative capabilities.

The public interest is very largely in favour of non-disclosure for these reasons.

This would only be overridden in exceptional circumstances, which this Freedom of Information request is not.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies. In accordance with the Freedom of Information Act 2000 this letter acts as a Refusal Notice for those aspects of your request.

Exemptions applied:

Section 30(1) – Investigations

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Wiltshire Police offers a re-examination of your case under its review procedure.
