Our ref FOI 2023/507

Dear ****,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 3rd May 2023 concerning Dating site blackmail crimes.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested.

You wrote:

1) For the calendar year 2022, please tell me how many crimes and incidents of alleged blackmail you have recorded which made reference to one (or more) of the following online dating applications in the MO and/or the "investigation summary field"/free-text space:

- a) Tinder
- b) Bumble
- c) Grindr
- d) Plenty of Fish
- e) OKCupid
- f) Hinge

Please provide a breakdown by dating site.

2) For the last ten crimes and incidents, please can you provide a verbatim copy of the "investigation summary field" and/or the modus operandi (MO)? Please redact private information so the summary can be released without triggering an exemption.

Response:

The information that you are requesting is not stored in a way which permits easy retrieval. We currently do not have the capability within our systems to flag this information which can then be analysed quickly and easily. There are several issues with obtaining this information, one of these being spelling mistakes in the MO, word variations, and in addition to this the dating sites may only be listed in the body of the crime report. As a result, data slips through the net.

The ascertaining of this information would only be possible by manually reading every single blackmail crime report during the period you are requesting, of which there are 361 blackmail offences, to determine if they relate to online dating applications.

Under the circumstances I am absolutely confident that to locate, retrieve and extract the information you seek would by far exceed the time obligations upon this authority to comply, and in so doing would exceed the fees limits. This is set at £450 calculated at a flat rate of £25 per hour for those work activities comprising of confirming the information is held, locating it, retrieving it and extracting it.

Ordinarily under our section 16 duty to provide advice and assistance, we would advise you how to refine your request to a more manageable level. However, due to the difficulties outlined above, I cannot see how this can be achieved in this particular case.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires the Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemption applicable to the information requested is:

Section 12: Exemption where cost of compliance exceeds appropriate limit

(1) Section 1(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

In accordance with section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely

Force Disclosure Decision Maker
