Dear

I write in connection with your request for information dated 7th June 2023 concerning Familial Searching of the National DNA Database.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and after having consulted Major Crime – I am now able to respond as follows.

You wrote:

I was formerly a senior scientist at the Forensic Science Service, Wetherby Laboratory, and I am now an Assistant Professor in Forensic Biology at the University of Bradford. I am continuing my previous research into the use of Familial Searching of the National DNA Database to identify potential suspects in serious and/or 'cold' cases.

I would like information from the Wiltshire Police about any successful convictions that followed the identification of a suspect using familial searching of the National DNA Database from 2013 to 2022.

Any information about the convicted perpetrator, the date of conviction, or outline case details would be appreciated

Our response:

I have consulted with the relevant departments and they have confirmed that this technique has not been used during the requested time period.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Force Disclosure Decision Maker

3. Review Procedure

Receipt of a request for review will be acknowledged in writing to include confirmation of the reasons for the review.
