Ref: FOI 2023/847

Dear,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 23rd August 2023 concerning outcomes for children following Police remand.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am not obliged to supply the information you have requested.

You wrote:

For the year ending December 2022:

- how many children (10-17 year olds) were remanded by your police force (i.e. refused post-charge bail and detained in police custody or a PACE bed until their court hearing)
- what proportion of those children remanded by your police force went on to be remanded by the court
- what was the breakdown of court outcomes received by children who were originally remanded by the police

Our response:

The information that you are requesting for the majority of your request (namely questions 2 & 3) is not stored in a way which permits easy retrieval. This is because in order to obtain this information, this would involve us not only having to source the record for each of the detainees but also then track down the court report for each, which would take a vast amount of time to achieve.

Therefore, under the circumstances I am absolutely confident that to locate, retrieve and extract the information you seek would by far exceed the time obligations upon this authority to comply, and in so doing would exceed the fees limits. This is set at £450 calculated at a flat rate of £25 per hour for those work activities comprising of confirming the information is held, locating it, retrieving it and extracting it.

Please note, that if one part of the request engages a Section 12 response, the whole request will engage a Section 12 response. The reason being is due to the fact that locating, retrieving and extracting any further information would only add to the already exceeded time obligations.

Although excess cost removes the forces' obligations under the Freedom of Information Act, as a gesture of goodwill I have supplied information, relative to your request, retrieved or available before it was realised that the fees limit would be exceeded. I trust this is helpful, but it does not affect our legal right to rely on the fees regulations for the remainder of your request. What I am able to provide you are the answers documented below –

- how many children (10-17 year olds) were remanded by your police force (i.e. refused post-charge bail and detained in police custody or a PACE bed until their court hearing)

Ordinarily under our Section 16 duty to provide advice and assistance, we would advise you how to refine your request in respect of questions 2 & 3 to a more manageable level. However, due to the difficulties outlined above, I cannot see how this can be achieved in this particular case. But, in order to assist you the best way we can, our Supplies department have suggested that you contact the Courts directly to see if they might be able to assist you with this information.

Section 17 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires the Wiltshire Police, when refusing to provide such information (because the information is exempt) to provide you the applicant with a notice which: (a) states that fact, (b) specifies the exemption in question and (c) states (if that would not otherwise be apparent) why the exemption applies.

The exemption applicable to the information requested is:

Section 12 – Exemption where cost of compliance exceeds appropriate limit

- (1) Section 1(1) does not oblige a public authority to comply with a request for information if the authority estimates that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

In accordance with Section 17 of the Act, this letter represents a Refusal Notice for this particular request.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Force Disclosure Decision Maker
