Our Ref FOI 2024-368

Dear XXXXX,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 6th April 2024, concerning 999 protocol for cave / mine rescue.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Following receipt of your request, research was conducted by the Contact Management Operations Manager at Wiltshire Police.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am able to respond as follows.

You wrote:

I am requesting a comprehensive and specific breakdown of the protocol that is followed by call-handlers when a 999 call comes in about cave/mines rescue in Wiltshire.

I would like a breakdown of the process from beginning to end, and any documented process from which a call-handler would be working from when handling such a call, including the following information;

- Call received for cave/mines rescue.
- The process that is followed, including any triggered multi-agency response, and what said agencies are.
- If, where appropriate, an officer is required to attend, what discretion they have on arrival, and what the escalation steps are.
- If, where appropriate, a specific rescue team is required, who does Wiltshire Police contact?

Our response:

Should a call be received which requires Cave/Mine rescue we would record the details of the incident and caller on a log. We would then contact Avon and Somerset Police or the Ministry of

Keeping Wiltshire Safe

Defence (depending on location) as they then co-ordinate any response. Wiltshire Officers will be deployed to assist if requested for situations such as crowd control etc.

Officers are able to use their discretion at every incident they attend, any escalation would be through their supervisor and or Force Incident Manager if required.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Force Disclosure Decision Maker

Wiltshire Police offers a re-examination of your case under its review procedure.
