Dear

I write in connection with your request for information dated 03/07/2024 concerning the number of police officers fatally injured in road traffic collisions following a shift and safety measures in place to avoid this.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Following receipt of your request, research was conducted by Human Resources and the Business Intelligence Team at Wiltshire Police.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am able to respond as follows.

You wrote:

Could you please supply the number of police officers fatally injured in road traffic collisions from your force when travelling home from a shift, specifically ones having finished a night shift or similarly physically demanding shift wholly or partly conducted during unsocial hours.

Could you also advise whether police officers are encouraged to take a short period of sleep if they feel fatigued or whether such a 'power nap' would be subject to action plan, management action etc.

Response

There is no information held regarding the first part of your question. To find out if any officers had been fatally injured following a shift of any time, we would have to manually peruse all road traffic collisions and cross check the names of the deceased against records held regarding all police employees.

Keeping Wiltshire Safe

There is also no information held with regards to the second part of your question.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely

Force Disclosure Decision Maker

Wiltshire Police offers a re-examination of your case under its review procedure.
