Dear XXXXXX,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 9th April 2025 concerning Coercive Control Training.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered and – having consulted our Learning & Development Team - I am now able to respond as follows.

You wrote (and Our Response)

1. Are all your police officers who attend domestic abuse incidents (crime scenes) trained about coercive control?

Yes, all should have received this training during either their initial training (PIP1) or on the DA Matters First Responders training - or they should be on the waiting list to attend that DA Matters First Responders training where they will receive it.

2. What training courses that police officers are mandated to attend is coercive control covered in?

During their initial PIP1 training and also during the specific DA Matters First Responders training.

3. Pets can be killed, harmed or threatened within domestic abuse and are often barriers for survivors leaving an abusive relationship. Does all of your coercive control training consider this aspect?

There is not any particular reference to pets in any of the DA Matters First Responders training material, but it is referred to during the PIP1 Training.

The Learning & Development Team have confirmed that they are currently in the process of revising the current DA training package to new officers and are looking to include this in the new training provided.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

Nick Penny

3. Review Procedure

Receipt of a request for review will be acknowledged in writing to include confirmation of the reasons for the review. The review will be conducted by another Decision Maker, who is independent from the original Decision Maker. The Force Disclosure Unit will set a target date for a response.
