Dear XXX,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 30/06/26 concerning Anti-Social behavior Borough Fields car park.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Your request for information has now been considered, and I am able to respond as follows.

You wrote:

Is Borough Fields car park an anti-social behaviour hot spot for Wiltshire Police? I am dealing with a Street Trading application for the car park on behalf of Wiltshire Council and a large number of objections have been receiving, citing on going ASB in the car

Response:

Borough Fields car park is one of several locations that the Wiltshire Police Neighbourhood Policing Team routinely patrols as part of our work to address our local anti-social behavior priority. However, routine patrols do not necessarily indicate that it is an ASB hotspot or that it experiences higher levels of crime-related incidents than other areas.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed on to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely
