Dear XXXXX,

I write in connection with your request for information dated 30th October 2026, concerning location-based collision searches.

I am required by the Freedom of Information Act 2000 to handle all requests in a manner that is blind as to the identity and motives of the requestor. Any information released as a response to a request is regarded as being published and therefore in the public domain without caveat.

Following receipt of your request, research was conducted by the Collisions Data department at Wiltshire Police.

Your request for information has now been considered and I am able to respond as follows.

You wrote and our response:

Further to our correspondence in July regarding FOI 2026/690, I am following up as agreed after three months.

You previously confirmed that Wiltshire Police holds the collision data requested but that limitations introduced with the new system in July 2025 prevented location-based searches. You also advised that the Justice Traffic Team was working to restore the necessary analysis functionality.

Could you please confirm:

1. Whether location-based collision searches are now operational.

   Yes

2. If not, what progress has been made since July and what specifically remains outstanding.

   N/A

3. Whether there is an agreed implementation date for the required functionality.

   N/A

4. What alternative arrangements are currently available to identify and analyse collisions at specific locations.

   N/A

As our location-based collision searches are now operational, under our section 16 duty to provide advice and assistance, we would advise you to resubmit your original request as the level of details within that request should now be retrievable.

I am satisfied that all the relevant information has been passed to me and been considered in the light of your request within the time constraints applicable under the legislation.

Wiltshire Police would like to thank you for the interest that you have shown in the Force.

Yours sincerely,

FDU Decision Maker
