

HELPING FAMILIES AFTER 'THE KNOCK'.

'The Knock'

Imagine...It is early morning, there is a loud knock on the door. The kids are eating their breakfast and you and your husband are rushing to get ready for work. You wonder who is at the door. You answer it to find uniformed police. They have a warrant to search your house for your husband's computers and other devices. Your legs turn to jelly as you struggle to stay calm.

We are a group of non-offending partners, #NOP's, who are here for other #NOP's (and their children), devastated by #TheKnock.

A non-offending partner is typically defined as the spouse of the offender. However, it may also be extended to include other family members related to the offender, who may also be greatly affected by 'The Knock'.

We are based in the UK and are not-for-profit. As well as helping NOP's (and their children), get through this very traumatic unexpected life-event, we also campaign to highlight injustices that non-offending partners experience as a result of 'The Knock'.

The exponential rise in the number of people (97% being men), being arrested for technologically assisted non-contact sexual offences against children is reaching epidemic levels. These crimes typically include accessing indecent images of children (iioc), voyeurism and sexual communication online with a someone under the age of 18.
